Nic Riley had everything going for him: a promising career, a beautiful home, a successful wife, and a loving daughter. But he wanted and needed more, and it drove him to an irrational act that telescoped him into another sphere, one in which there were no absolutes. The new road he took contained great risk, to his life and his soul, a lonely road filled with the pain of separation, of guilt and loss, but one which could lead to self-clemency, perhaps even to be accorded a victory.

This book is written as a motivation to elevate the broken hearts to the Living God, and to remind us of who we are in Christ when we are faced with stage of emptiness in our lives, and to remind us also of what God has installed for us through Christ as his beloved ones. The book speaks about the positive power of obedience when one is faced with nothing, or emptiness in life, the negative influence power of depending on experience as a child of God. This book is written to remind us that emptiness is not a limitation to God, and neither can we be limited to the power of this dark force because of the presence of God in us & with us, but only if we learn to embrace the power of obedience. The book contains ten (10) reasons that proves that God does really cares for us, more than we have even ever thought about; it explains the meaning of the cross of Christ for our lives- why did Jesus had to die for us, and explains the meaning why it is important "to know God".

This book is written to remind us that "A desperate mind, is a defeated mind" and "he who rejects a good advice, rejects the right direction;" and "unless you learn to obey, you will never know the truthfulness & faithfulness of God in your life"

"The most potent weapon in the hands of the oppressor is the mind of the oppressed." Like all of Steve Biko's writings, those words testify to the passion, courage, and keen insight that made him one of the most powerful figures in South Africa's struggle against apartheid. They also reflect his conviction that black people in South Africa could not be liberated

The collection also includes a preface by Archbishop Desmond Tutu; an introduction by Malusi and Thoko Mpumlwana, who were both involved with Biko in the Black Consciousness movement; a memoir of Biko by Father Aelred Stubbs, his longtime pastor and friend; and a new foreword by Professor Lewis Gordon. Biko's writings will inspire and educate anyone concerned with issues of racism, postcolonialism, and black nationalism.

Building on the success of his acclaimed adaptation of The Seagull, Tom Stoppard returns to Chekhov and the themes of bitter social satire, personal introspection, and the electrifying atmosphere of Russia on the brink of change. In these two new versions, Stoppard brings his crisp and nimble style to two masterpieces of the modern theater. Ivanov is a portrait of a man plagued with self-doubt and despair. Considered one of Chekhov's most elusive characters, he seeks more in life than the self-absorption and ennui he sees in his contemporaries.

This book examines how young people understand and live politics, using innovative research methods. It treats age, class, gender and ethnicity as political 'lived experiences'. It concludes that young people are alienated, rather than apathetic, and that their interests and concerns are rarely addressed within mainstream political institutions.

the dashing Griffin Durant, and Allegra knows she's not dealing with just a man...

Though their kind have been enemies for centuries, Griffin has never encountered a vampire as independent, uninhibited or eager for his touch as Allegra. Yet their newfound desire is threatened by a jealous vampire master, and a race war seems inevitable. Griffin and Allegra must struggle to stay out of harm's way--and hold on to their dream of an eternity of passion.

This book is written for girls and young women themselves and for people who are, like the contributors, currently teaching or working with girls.
