An anthology of erotic short fiction features eighteen original stories that explore the diversity of sexual experiences in works by such authors as Colin Channer, John A. Williams, Clarence Major, and Arthur Flowers.

A New York Times Notable Book of the Year From a genuine hero of the American short story comes a luminous collection that reveals the seams of hurt, courage, and tenderness that run through the bedrock of contemporary American life. In these fourteen stories, Dubus depicts ordinary men and women confronting injury and loneliness, the lack of love and the terror of actually having it. Out of his characters' struggles and small failures--and their unexpected moments of redemption--Dubus creates fiction that bears comparison to the short story's greatest creators--Chekhov, Raymond Carver, Flannery O'Connor.

A raucous history of Vancouver's music and entertainment venues, from Prohibition-era nightclubs and Chinatown cabarets to gay bars, dive bars, goth hideaways, discos, and taverns. Archival posters and photos chronicle how the city's nightlife changed with times, and how some of these nightspots ushered in changes to Vancouver. ### Miami After Hours

Bold and provocative, the short stories in Fleming's "Havoc After Dark" blend traditional horror with political and sociological chills in which realistic themes such as slavery, war, and capital punishment are harrowingly explored. Includes a Foreword by Tananarive Due.

Special edition of the Federal Register, containing a codification of documents of general applicability and future effect ... with ancillaries.

An exploration of the tradition of night photography in the city of Detroit by well-known artists from the 1950s until today This book is the first to explore photographic representations of Detroit during the hours from dusk until dawn, featuring work by artists including Robert Frank, Leni Sinclair, Steve Shaw, Russ Marshall, and Dave Jordano, among others. The city's streets, architecture, vast industrial complexes, night clubs, and unique subcultures are captured here in otherworldly visions of the nighttime urban landscape from the 1950s to the present day. These images offer a unique interpretation of Detroit, its industry, culture, and turbulent history through the second half of the 20th century and into the 21st. This book also provides context for the work by addressing historically significant artists who have contributed to the genre, including Ilse Bing, Brassa, Andr Kertesz, Berenice Abbott, and others.

396 Hours is a collection of short prose put together quickly, precisely, and with a passion for the story.

This book is a collection of short stories as told to me by my grandfathers. It covers a short period of time in the lives of my great grandfathers, Charles and William. Most stories are true, but as stories go, there may be some slight stretching from the telling over and over.

Adventures of Martin Hewitt, The Red Triangle, A Child of the Jago, Tales of Mean Streets, To London Town, The Green Eye of Goona, Divers Vanities, Green Ginger, The Shadows Around Us & many more

Science fiction and fantasy readers have long shown an affinity for a good "bar story". Now some of today's most inventive scribes have decided to tell their own tall tales—from an alewife's attempt to transfer the gods' curse to Gilgamesh, to Odin's decision to introduce Vikings to the Ur-Bar, from the Holy Roman Emperor's barroom bargain, to a demon hunter who may just have met his match in the ultimate magic bar, to a bouncer who discovers you should never let anyone in after hours in a world terrorized by zombies.

"[Doyle] imparts a sense of poignancy and glimpses of happiness, of grief and loss and small moments of connection . . . you're left feeling close to dazzled." —Daphne Merkin, New York Times Book Review
A brilliantly warm and witty portrait of our pandemic lives, told in ten heartrending short stories, from the Booker Prize-winning author of Paddy Clarke Ha Ha Ha Love and marriage. Children and family. Death and grief. Life touches everyone the same. But living under lockdown, it changes us alone. In these ten beautifully moving short stories written mostly over the last year, Booker Prize winner Roddy Doyle paints a collective portrait of our strange times. A man abroad wanders the stag-and-hen-strewn streets of Newcastle, as news of the virus at home asks him to question his next move. An exhausted nurse struggles to let go, having lost a much-loved patient in isolation. A middle-aged son, barred from his mother's funeral, wakes to an oncoming hangover of regret. Told with Doyle's signature warmth, wit, and extraordinary eye for the richness that underpins the quiet of our lives, Life Without Children cuts to the heart of how we are all navigating loss, loneliness, and the shifting of history underneath our feet. After Hours is an exquisite collection of night photography shot from all around the globe. Turn page after page of stunning photography with no captions and let your mind do the thinking. It makes a great gift or an enjoyable read for travel or any occasion. Enjoy and share with your friends today!

Arthur Morrison (1863–1945) was an English author known for his detective stories, featuring the detective Martin Hewitt, realistic, lower class answer to Sherlock Holmes. Martin Hewitt stories are similar in style to those of Conan Doyle, cleverly plotted and very amusing, while the character himself is a bit less arrogant and a bit more charming than Holmes. Morrison is also known for his realistic novels and stories about working-class life in London's East End, A Child of the Jago being the best known.
